Local officials say they hope this project will increase the capacity to entertain thousands of visitors during the annual Fairport Canal Days and other events, which will help grow local businesses and spur job creation.

Fairport Mayor Fritz May said the new upgrades will give the “tired area” a much needed facelift for boaters and other visitors, as well as those who walk the canal for enjoyment.

“It’s been an area that’s pulled people to the center of our village,” he said.
